

Dear Administrators and Parents,

We are excited that students from your school are participating in our 3rd cohort of the Global Classroom Pair-Share event. This international project connects language-learning classrooms around the world to give students a platform to improve and share their bilingual skills.

Teachers and their students will complete a variety of proficiency-leveled activities designed by language acquisition professionals to boost and accelerate their language abilities.

Students in classrooms that complete all three months of paired activities will receive international recognition for their participation and teachers will be rewarded with the opportunity to test some students to officially measure their language skills on the Council of Europe Framework of Reference (CEFR) scale. Students who test with skills at the B1 or higher level will earn a Global Seal of Biliteracy, a free international language certification that is digitally shareable and may qualify for academic credit.

The 2024 Global Classroom Pair-Share activities were created to incorporate 21st Century Skills, Information & Computer Technology (ICT), along with the World Readiness Standards for Learning Languages.

The Global Seal of Biliteracy organization is glad to be able to offer your students this exceptional opportunity at no charge. Participating teachers also have access to free professional development to support them as they complete the Pair-Share activities with their students.

For 2024, over 100 teachers applied to participate from 26 countries speaking 30 different languages across 15 time zones. We are thrilled that your school has accepted the challenge to "Go Global."
